ALL SNOWED UNDER

A Touch of Class

Class means many different things: a grade of quality, a style, a period of time, a group. And with these definitions, Meredith College definitely has class. A women's college like ours is not for everyone; but for the group of women that have been touched by this place this year, good or bad, kept or forgotten, the things we have learned here will shape our futures. From orientation to graduation and every dance, exam and big sis/lil' sis function in between, Meredith students participated in the traditions that make our institution unique. Although experiences vary among students, most will agree that they would not have gone to N. C. State, UNC, Duke, or any other college and missed the times they have had here at Meredith this year. The Oak Leaves staff has tried to illustrate some of these experiences in picture and in print. We have tried to cover a variety of events, but we may have only hinted at what went on at Meredith College in 1992-1993 with a touch of class.

In and out of class we were involved in almost every aspect of Meredith life. From Orientation to English 111; from Calculus I to the Friday night at N. C. State, UNC, or Duke; from Cornhuskin' to Stunt; from the White Iris Ball to the spring formals; and from MEA Luaus to the crook hunt, we found ourselves with a touch of class, a hint of tradition, and a feeling of friendship. We did it all, or at least it felt like we did. At times all we wanted to do was go back to our dorm rooms and vegetate on our beds; some of us even did. Times may have gotten rough, but we moved right along, keeping our smiles and building our laughter. We found our potential in everything in we did in 1992-1993, outdoing ourselves, even though sometimes it may have been touch and go.

Orientation

Freshmen were welcomed to "Some Kind of Woderful" during Orientation.

Orientation Week- the first day of the rest of every freshman's life. During this week, all of the new Angels learn the skills of survival for the next four years. And within those four years, the students of Meredith College learn the tools of survival for the rest of their lives.

Although the week started out gloomy, smiles were quickly brought to everyone's faces as students and their parents were greeted by the balloon rainbow marking the entrance into a new phase of life. Student advisors, administrators, and the orientation crew anxiously welcomed all of the new students.

The week was full of activities that kept everyone busy. Between handbook training sessions, students got a chance to familiarize themselves with Meredith and Raleigh. They attended their first formal dinner at college, participated in many fun-filled "getting to know you" games, and explored the many possibilities that lay ahead. The students spent time with their faculty and student advisors asking questions about all aspects of college life. Meanwhile, through it all, lasting friendships were being formed. Shurley McCullen, class of 1996, stated, "My favorite part of Orientation Week was meeting new friends."

As the week winded down, students were eager to begin their college careers. They had learned all of the rules of Meredith, met many new friends, and gotten acquainted with their new homes. In the words of freshman Julie Beyer, "Orientation Week was very helpful, but it was so long!"

Cornhuskin', for the classes of 1993 and 1995, was a banner night in the year. The seniors came in first after the week-long competition, while their little sister class placed second, thus redeeming themselves from last year's fourth place. Leading the seniors was fourth-time Cornhuskin' chair Mandy Dill and the theme of "Goin' Out with a Bang"; The sophomores were headed by Leah Ritchie and Jennifer Borowicz who were "Moving Right Along" with their plans.

Junior co-chairs Heather Thomasson and Sharon Thomes headed up their class with the statement that they were "Uniquely One Forever." The juniors placed third in the overall competition. Their little sister class, led by Georgette McGill and Starlotte Smith, presented themselves as finding their "Rainbow Connection," and placed fourth in the competition.

A new competition was added to this year's agenda: cooperation points. The idea was initiated to help decrease the tension between the four class that was evident last year, and it made for an overall more-spirited week. The seniors and juniors both won eight points, while the sophomores and freshmen received six. Another change in store for the student body to help reduce the tension was the unveiling of the class themes on Monday night. In a classroom skit, Heather Thomasson, one of the junior co-chairs, represented the professor while the other co-chairs her pupils; the finale was a 'Pledge to Cornhuskin'."

Thursday night, after all the tallies were in, the winners were announced: For the Skit Parade, seniors came in first, followed by the juniors, and sophomores; the Hog Callin': sophomores took the lead, then seniors, and juniors; in the Tall Tale: seniors topped it off, juniors came in second, and the sophomores third; for the Songs: seniors first, then sophomores, and the juniors; in the Cornshuckin': sophomores took the lead, then juniors, and seniors; for the Apple Bobbin': seniors came in first, followed by the juniors, and sophomores; finally, for the Sweatshirt competition: juniors and sophomores tied for first and the seniors came in second.

White Iris Ball

The class comes out at the White Iris Ball

Why was the night of October 17, 1992 full of fun, friendships, and memories that will never be forgotten by many Meredith women? Because it was the night of the second annual White Iris Ball semi-formal! Sponsored by the Meredith Entertainment Association, the dance was held at the Raleigh Civic Center, and lasted from 9:00 p. m. to 1:00 a.m. Brian King and the Vector D. J. Service provided the music for the evening in addition to a successful light laser show that was enjoyed by all that attended. Tickets were sold along with Dr. Seuss t-shirts the week prior to the event.

The dance was especially successful because of the outstanding turn-out of all class members and committee members. MEA junior co-chairs of the dance were Jill Tuttle and Crystal Howard. Tuttle described the White Iris Ball as " a successful attempt to bring all of the classes and their guests together."

MEALuau/Fall Fest

Music of all kinds brings students to annual events

The Meredith traditions continued with the annual MEA Luau, held September 30, 1992. Wearing grass skirts and leis, MEA members advertised the upcoming event all day. Students dined in the courtyard on barbecue chicken, "mocktails", fresh fruit, and other tropical side dishes. Students were given their own leis at the event. Entertainment was provided by the UNC-Chapel Hill Clefhangers, an all-male, acappella group, as well as Meredith's own Bathtub Ring. Sophomore Katie Puskar commented, "The Clefhangers were a lot of fun because they sing songs you know and get you to participate in their show." The weather was agreeable for resident, non-resident students, and their guests came for the afternoon festivities. Co-chairs for the luau were Carrie Roney and Michele Smith.

Another event that brought Meredith students together was Fall Fest. The annual event was held on September 20, 1992 in the amphitheater and was co-chaired by Kim Clark and Katherine Davis. Fall Fest brought BS&M, who provided the music, to our campus from Richmond, Virginia. Some students and their dates enjoyed dancing, canoeing, volleyball, hot dogs and cotton candy; but others enjoyed simply stretching out on the grass for the afternoon. Many people took advantage of the new activity, canoeing on the Meredith lake. Canoes were rented from a local sporting goods store. Junior transfer student Rene Deibert said, "I felt the afternoon was a great bonding experience for the Meredith community which was absent from my former institution."

New Dining Hall

A classy touch; "the cafeteria looks 100% better than last year. I've never seen it look this good," said Senior Allison King.

Almost five years ago there was talk of renovating the Meredith dining hall. After not having changes made to the cafeteria since the early 1970's, the 1992-93 season brought this talk of renovating the cafeteria into action. The dining hall literally had a major face lift. Allison King, senior, said, "The cafeteria looks 100% better than last year. I've never seen it look this good!"

Many changes were made in all aspects of the food service at Meredith. Probably one of the biggest changes was a wall placed around the food court. This wall was built to help keep traffic flow down while students were getting their food and to keep the noise level from getting too loud. The ceiling was lowered and new wallpaper, paint, and carpet was added as well. The tables were reconditioned and made shorter and the chairs were recovered. A new lighting system was built and food signs were hung for decoration and for direction to where things were located. The air-conditioning and heating systems were also reworked to improve the climate within the cafeteria.

The changes made have proved to be very positive and given the cafeteria an attractive appearance as well as a comfortable environment for eating.

ICE CREAM DELIGHT

Freshman Sarah Rotunda also added one of her favorite highlights of the new cafeteria: "I like the music that they play during the meals. It's fun listening to it while socializing with my friends."

Thad O'Briant, Food Services Manager, said this year they have tried to experiment with different menu changes to see what the students like. Many new food bars such as the potato bar, bagel bar, chef salad bar, and the breakfast bar have been added every once in awhile to induce variety in the meals. Special theme dinners have also been added to break the regular sequence of meals such as an Italian night and a Mexican night.

All in all, the new dining hall has definitely made a very positive impact on the Meredith community. It is a place for students to not only to eat, but to socialize with friends in a pleasant atmosphere.

Friends & Family

Lil' friends get looney while parents learn more about what Meredith has to offer.

Friends and relatives graced the campus on two different occasions this year at Meredith. The annual events of Parents' Weekend and Lil' Friends Weekend were again a big success.

Parents' Weekend brought around several activities on campus again this year. The picnic in the courtyard and open house on Sunday were part of the festivities. Parents and family enjoyed themselves while visiting their daughters as it not only gave them time with them, but they did not have to worry about doing their daughters' laundry, but it also gives them time to see Meredith. Whether it's getting together to go to the N.C. State football game on Saturday or just touring around campus, parents give the look of Meredith that special touch.

The campus was also buzzing with that special touch in March with the annual Lil' Friends Weekend. This year's event seemed to be a great success. Events ranged from games in the courtyard, swimming in the pool, constructing masquerade masks for the ball, and a performance by the Meredith Aqua Angels. Tiny voices could be heard on every hall and Meredith students got the chance to see how it felt to be "young" again.

A Night on the Town

MEA sponsors both the Halloween Mixer and Comedy Night

Just about every organization on campus sponsors some kind of event for the Meredith community. Whether it's held in the morning, all day, or the evening, a crowd is usually drawn to see what is going on. The Halloween Mixer and Comedy Night were no different. Members of each class showed up to dance, laugh, eat, and socialize at the events.

The Halloween Mixer was held on Thursday, October 29 in the Weatherspoon Gymnasium. Meredith women and their dates went to the gym to find dancing, refreshments, and ghosts and goblins.

COMEDY NIGHT: Sharon Thomes and Elizabeth Weidler, co-chairs of the event, stand with the five-man comedy act, Selective Hilarity. The group performed at Charlie Goodnights February 23-27th. (Photo by: Crystal Strickland)

On Thursday, February 4, 1993, the Meredith Entertainment Association sponsored Comedy Night, held in the Belk Dining Hall. Co-chaired by Sharon Thomes and Elizabeth Weidler, the evening was a big success as the cafeteria was converted into a comedy club/ restaurant complete with waitresses, snack food, entertainment, and a laughing audience of course.

Singing silly songs and acting out skits, "Selected Hilarity" was chosen to perform for the Meredith students that attended. The group asked for and received audience participation causing many people to laugh at the audience members' request. The scene from a dorm pallor (a request of an audience member) proved a good setting for a skit while they guessed the problem of party guests. A good time was had by all that attended the night's performance.

Stunt

Still another Meredith tradition withstanding time prospered again for the college this year. Stunt, sponsored by the Meredith Recreation Association, was held on April 15th, from 4 pm to 6 pm in the courtyard. Some of the events were new, while some were blasts from the past.

While a mass of on-lookers moved from spot to spot across the courtyard, many students and their dates took the opportunity to dive into the food line.Co-chairs Ashley Blanton and Christy Jackson led the events from the sponge toss to the lip synching contest. Students participated in the three-legged race, flower power, tug-of-war, and many others; faculty members were invited to play a game of volleyball.

The overall scores left the seniors on top, followed by sophomores second, juniors third, and freshmen fourth. Ashley Blanton summed up the co-chairs' feelings about this year's Stunt, saying, "Things went really well this year. We were on the ball and ready for anything. We know every class worked really hard and it all paid off. The outcome was great. We were pleased with everything."

Freshmen and Sophomores dance the night away at their spring semi-formal

On Friday, April 9th, many freshman and sophomores decked out in their best evening attire. Gowns and suits flooded the Raleigh Civic Center from 9 pm until 1 am for the annual spring dance. The theme revolved around the circus title, "Under the Big Top."

Decorations included multi-colored balloons and confetti scattered over the tables, and an authentic popcorn and refreshment stand. Students danced the night away to the music provided by the DJ. Refreshments and beverages donned the tables as students took a breather from dancing.

Amy Clark

As always, the students enjoyed themselves, as did their dates. Meredith students can always make college events shine and stand out in their minds forever. "Under the Big Top" was no exception.

Juniors and Seniors dance at "Not Just Another Black Tie Affair"

The junior class sponsored the annual Junior/Senior formal on April 10, 1993, and this certainly was "Not Just Another Black Tie Affair" that was held at the Raleigh Civic Center in downtown. Gowns and tuxedos were purchased and carried off downtown in style. Many students splurged on limosines, fine dining, and other extraordinary items for the night.

Amy Clark

Decorations included items that depicted the city life and nights out on the town. Balloons and other paraphanalia donned the Civic Center while dancers donned the dance floor. Meredith students and their dates enjoyed the night that would be one of their best. This dance marked the last for seniors who were graduating, and everyone made that night a night to remember. A night that was something very special--"not just another black tie affair."

Awards Day

Academic and Leadership Awards Days help to recognize outstanding Meredith students.

On Monday, April 5, Meredith faculty and students recognized those students who excell in their fields of study. Dr. Sandra Thomas gave the opening remarks at the Academic Awards Day, speaking of those who excel in the scholarship and academic leadership on campus. Among the many award recipients of that day in Jones Auditorium, seniors Tanya Denton, Mary Dana Morrill, and Mallory Hearne were awarded the Academic Excellence Awards for their 4.0 grade point averages.

Organizations, classes, and the entire campus are blessed with the leaders of the Meredith student population. Monday, April 19 was the day for recognition of these Meredith leaders. The Leadership Awards Day was sponsored by the Office of Student Activities. Among the awards given was the finale, senior Jennifer Hartig inducting junior Camille Hatch as the 1993-1994 SGA President. Cheryl Smith, Program Director of Student Activities and Leadership Development, welcomed the audience, and Dr. Sandra Thomas, Vice-President for Student Development addressed students and guests. Some of the highlights included the Student Development Leadership Award given to Amy Bond, the RA Extra Effort Award given to Kelly Phillips, and the Top 10 Outstanding Seniors Awards given to Carolyn Moyer, Hollie Coward, Tammi George, Jill Barlow, Hollis Hayworth, Libbie Farmer, Kate Wilson, Penny Kiser, Beth Lowry, and Shawna Hastings.

Traditions

Through the years, students experience traditionsfelt by many generations.

When the Class of 1996 arrived on our campus last August, many of them were surprised to find the variety of traditions held at Meredith College. Examples include Cornhuskin', Big Sis/Lil Sis, and the Crook Hunt. Each year, freshmen are greeted by their Big Sisters (sometimes even two of them), who help them through their first two years of college life. The Luau, White Iris Ball, Spring Fling and the spring dances give Meredith Angels time to relax and be with their friends. Some traditions are not all fun and games though; the Honor Code at Meredith is one of the very serious traditions here. During Orientation, tests are given to make sure students are aware of what is expected of them and a ceremony is given inducting students into Meredith College. The Silver Shield inductions, Academic Awards Day, and Leadership Awards Day are examples of Meredith recognize their own students in academic and leadership excellence.

Photo Specialties

Each class has their own traditions, too. Freshmen have Orientation; sophomores include their parents in the annual Mother/Daughter Tea and a Father/Daughter Dinner Dance. The juniors have their Junior Ring Dinner where they begin to wear the black onyx ring like the many generations of women before them. Finally, the seniors have many activities including the Senior Alumnae Induction Dinner, and Tunnel Painting, and Graduation of course. One of the prettiest traditions, Class Day, is shared with the seniors and their little sisters, the sophomores. On the island, many teary eyes are found as the classes listen to the class history of the seniors.

All of these traditions makes Meredith special to the students, graduates, faculty, and administration. Being at Meredith means participating in these events. These activities promote unity, friendship, and memories that will last long past graduation.

Baccalaureate

Larry C. Williams returns to Meredith with the message that sometimes "Life isn't fair."

On Wednesday, April 21, 1993, the Senior class, dressed in their caps and gowns, gathered together in Jones Chapel for the first of the ceremonies proceeding graduation: the Baccalaureate service. Parents, faculty, administration, and undergraduates joined the Class of 1993 to listen to the guest speaker, Larry C. Williams.

Dr. John E. Weems, president, introduced Mr. Williams by first mentioning that he is surrounded by Meredith alumnae. Mr. William's wife is 1961 graduate of Meredith College, his daughter Maria, Class of 1991, and Anna, Class of 1993. Mr. Williams was the campus minister here at Meredith from 1972 thru 1981; and now he is the pastor at Louisburg Baptist Church.

Amy Clark

Preparing the seniors for what lay ahead of them, Larry Williams told them that "sometimes life just isn't fair." Out in the real world they may not get the job they want at first, the recognition they deserve, or even the paycheck they earned; but God gave us all the gift of life, which we should appreciate during the good and the bad times.

The Meredith Chorale, directed by Alice Goode, performed, "Surely the Lord is in This Place." Following the Call to Worship, the congregation sang, "Joyful, Joyful, We Adore Thee."

Class Day

The Class of 1993 donates $4000 to the Rebecca Murray Scholarship Fund.

On Saturday, May 8th, the Class of 1993 joined its Big and Little Sister Classes for the annual Class Day celebration in the amphitheater. Seniors passed through the daisy and ivy in the traditional Class Day attire while family and friends packed the amphitheater to share in this special tribute to the Class of 1993.

During the ceremony, historians presented class histories from each of their four years at Meredith. Also presented was the Class Doll, Cindy Rebecca, and the Class Gift, a check for $4000 to the Rebecca Murray Scholarship Fund. The members of the Class of 1995 received wishbones from their Big Sisters to protect them from the sticks and stones given to the even numbered classes, and all three classes received musical tributes from their Meredith sisters.

Steve Wilson

The highlight of the day was the daisy chain procession and the formation of the class numerals on the island. As the graduating class lined the island hand-in-hand, their little sisters carried the chain onto the island to form a "93" with the daisy and ivy. The song "Now and Forever" played in the background as the seniors removed their shoes and prepared to make a dash for a daisy from the chain. In traditional Class of '93 style, the seniors took off running even before the last little sister was off the island.

Graduation

Dr. Jean Jackson delivers the commencement address to the Class of 1993.

Sunday, May 9th, was celebrated nationwide as a day to honor our mothers and grandmothers for all their hard work and dedication over the years. Here at Meredith College, we also gathered together to celebrate the hard work and dedication of the Class of 1993 during the annual commencement ceremony in the Elva McIver Amphitheater. Cameras clicked and arms waved as seniors filed in to the traditional "Pomp and Circumstance."

Steve Wilson

Once in the amphitheater, President Weems extended a welcome to all guests and requested a special recognition of the mothers in the audience. Special recognition was also offered to the recipients of the Outstanding Teacher and Distinguished Meredith Alumnae Awards. Dr. Jean Jackson, Class of 1975, delivered the commencement address, with a little help from the graduates, who weakly recited the Prologue to The Canterbury Tales, from which Dr. Jackson borrowed the title of her address, "And Pilgrims Were They Alle..."

After receiving their degrees, graduates turned their tassels and shed their gowns in the early afternoon heat. Senior Class President Ashley Price gave a farewell address, followed by closing remarks from President Weems. The ceremony concluded with the singing of the alma mater and the beautiful voices of the Meredith Chorale offering, "The Lord Bless You and Keep You."

ARE THEY BEHAVING?

The classes we took were not the only classic activities that we participated in at Meredith in 1992-1993. Each of the sixty-six organizations had its own personality, its own charm, its own interests, and sometimes even its own temper. All of the groups were known for its own activities. Students took the time out to prepare luaus, sponsor movies, and create convocations. From MCA's weekly worship service to MRA's Cornhuskin' week; from AMC's car care program to Le Cercle Francais' Cafe; and from SGA's forums to "Meredith Gets Campused," we felt the need and desire to be a part of Meredith College life. We enjoyed the campus more, mainly because of the style and flair of each organization, club, and publication and what they gave to each of our lives. Through all we did in between the hustle and bustle of our academic responsibilities, we still made time for the organizations that helped shape our memories and build our leadership skills-- with a touch of class.

ABA, the Association for Black Awareness, provides a different outlook for the Meredith campus through special programs, events, and activities. The month of February has become the traditional time during which Meredith College celebrates the various contributions of African-Americans to our great American culture. Aside from sponsoring traditional events, lectures, a worship service, and convocation during the month, ABA works with other organizations throughout the year to produce programs to be enjoyed by the students, and staff at Meredith College. An organization through which the entire student body can benefit from recognizing another perspective, an African-American perspective, ABA is a meaningful and significant association to have on Meredith's campus.

The Meredith Christian Association sponsors worship services, Unwindings, Bible studies, retreats, and Religious Emphasis Week. In addition to a mission trip. MCA promotes community service with projects such as Project HOPE, Outreach, and involvement with the blind community. This year MCA's theme is "Searching, Serving and Celebrating." The activities sponsored by MCA provide opportunities for fellowship and personal spiritual growth.

The Student Government Association is Meredith's student body government. Its main purpose is "to promote, in cooperation with the administration, the general welfare of the student body." Goals for this year included improving the social life on campus, promoting participation among all organizations, increasing participation in elections, and fostering open communication between campus groups, the student body, and the administration. The group achieved many of its goals through the use of campus wide forums. Topics included SGA goals and objectives, Baptist convention Report, Cultural Diversity, and the "Open House". SGA also sponsored Student Advisor Appreciation Day, Faculty Appreciation Day, and Alcohol Awareness Week.

The Review Board was established for students who feel their punishment was too severe or their Honor Council trial was unfair. After hearing the case, the board decides whether or not there is justification for the appeal. The board then has the option to uphold or change any Honor Council decision.

The Honor Council is comprised of two students from each class, two commuter students, four faculty representatives, and an Executive Board. The council hears cases of students who violate college policies or regulation, and serves to uphold the Honor Code.

The Accounting Association is designed to give accounting students insight into the field of public and private accounting. We frequently hold meetings in which accountants from the community come to speak to us about their experiences in the accounting profession. Another objective of the Accounting Association is to keep students up-to-date on current accounting issues.

The Canaday Math/Computer Science Club started the year off with an ice cream social on the island. We met the first Tuesday of every month, and we always welcomed new members. Our meetings were both fun and informative. Several speakers, including an experienced panel, talked to our club. At one of our meetings, we showed War Games, a movie whose theme was based on computers and math. Finally, we ended the year with a picnic where we inducted new officers.

Collegiate Music Educators National Conference is an organization designed to afford students an opportunity for professional orientation and development while still in school. Each year we sponsor a poinsettia sale around the end of the fall semester. The poinsettias are used to decorate the stage of Jones auditorium for the Christmas Concert. CMENC provides services that meet needs that are unique to our profession.

Le Cercle Francais is open to anyone who has an interest in France and her culture. Our purpose is to promote this interest by presenting informative programs concerning France and French speaking countries. We meet monthly to watch films, taste French food, play games, and listen to guest speakers. During the 1992-93 academic year, we sold French pastries at our version of "La Patisserie," played Scrabble in French, had Laurence Viguie speak about Toulouse, had presentations about study abroad programs in France, sang French Christmas carols at a nursing home, prepared a breakfast for the foreign language professors, watched a film, bought a video for the department and participated in the Foreign Language Follies.

The Granddaughter's Club, this year, held an ice-cream social, a trip to Side-Street Cafe, and a viewing of the First Ten Immortals(first 10 graduates of Meredith) in the Alumnae House. This Tuesday, Nov. 24, we are meeting in the Alumnae House for Christmas decorating and to make Christmas gifts for the faculty. For next semester, the first week of January when we return, the club will be putting together a display case at the front of the library. In February, we always participate in the wreath laying ceremony on Founder's Day.

The Institute of Business Designers is the professional organization for those students who are Interior Design majors. IBD members have the opportunity to attend furniture markets, design conferences and rallies and to meet with speakers from the design field. IBD has already attended the International Furniture Market in High Point, NC, taken a "behind-the-scenes" tour of the Governor's Mansion and have met with healthcare, commercial and residential designers. They play to meet with sales representatives and to take a weekend trip to a historical comunity. IBD also holds a Graduation breakfast in May for all interior design seniors.

MAA is the newest departmental organization. Members include business majors interested in marketing and advertising. The purpose of the club is to provide student development in marketing and advertising by providing contact with marketing and advertising professionals, providing realistic news of marketing and advertising careers, assisting students in deciding on a career in this field, and keeping students informed of marketing and advertising interests and problems.

This year the Social Work Club was actively involved in projects, including participation in "fair day", RSVP, and working with Methodist Home for Children. Their meetings were very informative for all social work majors, sponsoring various speakers including representatives from local social work agencies. One of the big events of the year included two visits from Ann Hartman, Dean of the Social Work Department at Smith College in Boston. She is a fore-runner in the social work profession. Career Day has been another big event. It included several representative from various agencies across North Carolina.

La Tertulia Spanish Club provides students with interesting programs on the Hispanic Culture, as well as, important events happening today. From the 500th year anniversary celebration of Columbus to the gauchos of Argentina; from informative Spanish films to Mexican Fiestas--La Tertulia makes the Spanish Culture and language come alive and makes it exciting.

We also are responsible for special projects such as Fast Aid Exam-Break Kits in the spring and the luminaries at Christmas.

TBW is the departmental club for business majors. It stands for Tomorrow's Business Women, and that is what our club promotes--the business women of the near future. This year, so far, our club is again sponsoring a very successful mentor program. This program matches senior business majors with women who are working in the area. (cont. page 76)

(TBW cont.) We were able to match twenty-seven TBW members with area business women, many of whom are alumnae of Meredith. This provides students with the opportunity to discuss concerns about the "real world" or entering the business environment with their mentor, someone who has experience. It also serves as a wonderful tool for networking.

WINGS is the acronym for Women In New Goal Settings. They serve as a support and information sharing group for the re-entry woman who is twenty-three years or older. This year there have been speakers on stress and over-achievers, career services, and financial aid. They also participated in Cornhuskin' for the fifth year in a row. WINGS also sponsors socials several times throughout the year.

Class Council is made up of the Class Presidents, Vice Presidents, Big Sister/Little Sister Chairs, Cornhuskin Chairs, Stunt Chairs and Dance Chairs. The Chair of the committee is the President of the Senior class and the vice chair is the Vice-president of the Junior class. The purpose of our committee is to promote class unity. Class Coucil sponsored the Cornhuskin' breakfast.

Alpha Lambda Delta is a national honor society that celebrates academic excellence in freshmen. Inductions are held in the spring of the freshmen year and fall of the sophomore year for freshmen who have obtained a GPA of 3.5 or better during their first year of college. ALD is a service organization as well as a honor society. This year's activities included a Cam-Tel raffle, a favorite professor sponge-toss, "Caught Studying," and a freshmen tutoring service. Alpha Lambda Delta is also establishing a scholarship for an honors high school senior.

Kappa Omicron Nu is a national home economics honor society. Membership is based on scholastic excellence, leadership abilities, fostering of professional activities and interests, and promoting networking among faculty and students of the profession. An initiation ceremony is held each semester.

Kappa Nu Sigma's purpose is to promote and recognize academic excellence at Meredith. Students earning a high GPA on a determined number of credits are inducted in the Fall or Spring semester of their senior year. Another induction of seniors takes place on graduation day.

Pi Delta Phi is the national French honor society. Its purpose is to recognize outstanding scholarship in the French language. During the 1992-93 academic year, Pi Delta Phi sent Thanksgiving surprises to the students studying in Angers, France, designed sweatshirts, sponsored the annual Outstanding Freshman in French Award, held inductions, and had a Christmas party.

Pi Mu Epsilon, the national honor society for mathematics, focuses on promoting mathematic excellence. Members volunteer four hours per month to the Math/CSC Tutorial Lab and encourage others outside of the Meredith community by informing them of Women in Mathematics. Pi Mu Epsilon also participates in Sonya Kovalevsky Day, which encourages high school students to take more mathematics classes than those required by colleges.

The Philaretian Service Society provides a wonderful opportunity to learn a lot about yourself through serving others. They visited the Integrated Health Services, a nursing home, and spend quality time with the residents. The group also volunteered with Tammy Lynn Center, a residential home for severely disabled children and youth. Also at Christmas time, members collected several items and send them to Interact, a center for victims of domestic violence and sexual assault. We also have Playday one Saturday in the Fall semester. A Raleigh inner-city housing project was invited to come to Meredith for an afternoon of fun and games, which was a great opportunity for the children to be given both lots of attention and a university student who can serve as a role model. One Saturday in the Spring, the club is planned to go to this neighborhood for fun and games. Each year they also participate in Oktoberfest, a German festival that raises money for Hospice. Anyone can join the Phi's in these activities throughout the year!

The Foods and Nutrition Club is an organization for individuals interested in the fields of food service management and/or human nutrition. The focus of the club is to provide opportunities for members to increase their awareness about food service or nutritional topics and to serve the community in these fields. In this effort, members of the 1992-93 club attended the American Dietetic Association Annual Convention in Washington, D.C. The club also provided representatives from the fields of food service management and nutrition to speak to the membership about current issues. Furthermore, in the spring semester, the club teamed up with the extension service to provide nutritional counseling to lower-income families. During this dynamic year, the members of the Foods and Nutrition Club, with the support of their sponsor Dr. Bettina Taylor, R.D., gained much from their experiences and gave back some of that knowledge to the community.

PRACTICE MAKES PERFECT

from basketball to tennis and from volleyball to intramurals, the Meredith College Physical Education department offers a wide variety of activities for the students. The tennis team competes in both the fall and spring semesters, requiring hard work and dedication at practices. In this 1993 school year, the basketball team proved to be a winner as they won game after game for their best season ever. The Aqua Angels showed off their talent with performances over Lil' Friends Weekend; performing to classical, western and even to opera music, the team showed their variability and choreography. The Meredith Dance Theatre put on several shows throughout both semesters. Spectators witnessed the groups enthusiasm and love for dance. In the spring afternoons, the softball team could be found either practicing out in the ball field or competing against other area schools. Meredith College Intramurals provide a wide variety of these and other sports, such as flag football, for every Meredith Angel wanting to participate.

Aqua Angels & Meredith Dance Theatre

This year the Aqua Angels performed "A Splash of Color" and "The Best of the Meredith Aqua Angels under the coaching of Carol Brown. In order to be fully prepared for these events, the Aqua Angels began practicing in November and had weekly practice from then on. Throughout each practice, they concentrated on their style and beauty as they strengthened their swimming skills.

The Meredith Dance Theatre remained busy this as they constantly practiced for each performance they held this year. Their hard work paid off as the audiences felt their love for dancing. Each number was beautifully choreographed so that the audience could feel their emotions while their costumes added to the mood of each dance.

Basketball

Experienced starters and valuable newcomers, such as Freshmen Emily Brown who became a key player involved in inside scoring, led Meredith's basketball team to be named "The Best Team Ever." Their hard work and strenuous practices, led by Coach Carl Hatchell, helped them to achieve a season record of 21-1.

Co-captains Jennifer Norris and Sylvia Newman, along with a majority of the other starters, have been starting players for the past three and four years. "We're playing more as a team and we don't have to depend on just one or two players," said Norris who was returning after injuring her knee last season.

The only team Meredith lost to this season was Methodist, 64-61. "We really beat ourselves and we weren't into the game. We were playing sloppy with sloppy passes," said Norris. It was obvious that the rest of the team agreed with her and put that game to rest as they went on to end their season by winning seven straight games.

Their constant winning streak drew crowds of students that cheered them on, helping to keep the games alive and the players motivated. As a result of their numerous victories, the Meredith Angels walked into the North Carolina and Virginia Women's Basketball Tournament confident about their consistency and walked out with the championship trophy.

Tennis and Softball

The tennis team had tremendous potential, which was combined with the experience of the upperclassmen and the enthusiasm of the freshmen to form a successful season on the court. Solid performances were given by underclassmen Jan McViell, Jan Yow, and Amy Youngblood, who was given special recognition at the Spring Awards banquet for "Most Improved Player." Also awarded was senior BA Eagles for "Most Valuable Player."

The 92-93 Softball team carried three captains, Stephanie Hopkins, Karry Arnath, and Jenny Stoneham, who provided leadership and support to the team both on and off the field. One area of concentration for the season was pitching; Coach Hatchell and alumnae Amy Adams trained freshmen Amber Routten and sophomore Carla Boyette in order to allow for a rotation in the pitching circle.

At the April Awards Banquet, Coach Hatchell presented awards to Jenny Stoneham, Fielding Award, Kara Arnath, Batting Award, and Kristen Stinson received the Special Coaches Award. With all the team returning for the 93-94 season, the team will continue their hard work and dedication.

Golf & Volleyball

The volleyball teams season record did not reflect all of the hard work, dedication, and spirit of the team. The year was a time for gaining experience and sharpening their skills. After a respectable season, the volleyball team has much to look forward to in the years to come: out of 14 players, eight will be returning for the 93-94 season. Freshmen Cathy Garrett sums up their potential by saying, "When we get it all together, we'll be awesome!"

The golf team played its last 18 holes this year with team members Lori Watson, Donna Johnson, Kim Andrews, and Valerie Hurst. Each member was given the traditional Senior Mug at the Athletic Banquet despite their current academic status. Replacing the Golf Team, a new soccer team will be formed to keep a total of five intercollegiate sports teams.

With 24 new faculty members, two appointed doctors in the English department, and the recipient of the South Atlantic Associating Department of English 1992 Outstanding Teacher Award, it's no wonder Meredith students have their hands full. Monday thru Friday, the students at Meredith College spend an average of twelve hours a day either in class, studying for the next class, or even getting help with material from a previous class. One could say it is a full-time job, and they'd be right. These are the leaders, teachers, and friends of the population here; the people from whom we are learning our values, information, and work ethics; the people who are giving us the classy situation where we are learning.

Education & Foreign Language

There is a well known children's story called The Whipping Boy. It describes the life of a lad who is designated to take any physical punishment metered out to the prince of the land. Under such a system misbehavior is recognized but the response to it is misplaced.

Those in education occasionally feel like "The Whipping Boy." Blame for the problems of the country (the prince's bad deeds, if you like) is frequently laid at the door of the school house. Such a response is misguided, inasmuch as it is simplistic. Many societal ills have their genesis outside the educational system and serve to undermine it. No matter. The net effect is to tarnish "the common school" as mediocre.

Positive evidence to the contrary is welcomed, therefore, with great relish. Such an event is rare and is sweet when it occurs. A recently published study comparing the reading abilities of nine year old and fourteen year old children across thirty one countries found the younger children from the United States were out performed only by Finland. Such evidence gives heart to teachers and yet-to-be teachers that we must be doing something right. Yea for such special events; they keep the profession warm! (Copy by: Beth Weir)

The Foreign Language Department is one of definite diversity. The department offers majors in French and Spanish, two years in Latin, three years in German, and one year in Italian. Every year the department holds the Foreign Language Follies. This year was no exception. Meredith students filled Carswell Auditorium and arc entertained with skits, monologues, songs, commercials, and dances all done in a foreign language.

Other exciting things happened this year. One was that Professor Julia Mack attended a semester-long course in short-story writing at Duke University's English Department. In October Brent Pitts attended the meeting of the Southeastern Medieval Association (SEMA) meeting in which he is a member this academic year. Brent also participated in the paideia workshop sponsored by Meredith's Department of Education and traveled to Mars Hill for the interdepartmental meeting of the Foreign Language departments of North Carolina Baptist colleges.

English & Business/ Economics

Many exciting events occurred this year in the Business and Economics Department. This year the departmental club for majors, TBW (Tomorrow's Business Women), has put together a very successful mentor program. This program matches senior business majors with women who are working in the area. We were able to match twenty-seven TBW members with area business women, many of whom are alumnae of Meredith . Donna Forrest, a recent Meredith graduate, has provided leadership for this project. This and many other events plus good courses made this department great this year.

There were exciting, sad, and encouraging events in the English Department this year. One of the most exciting incidents was Dr. Walton's Outstanding Teacher Award. He was one of four in the Southeast to win in 1992. This is an annual award and he was pleased to be awarded for it. However, he claimed Dr. Taylor helped him win this award by helping him get to Washington D.C. to participate in a workshop with seventeen other Shakespearean scholars at the Folger Library which is a Shakespearean Library. Once a month he was able to travel there with housing, meals and transportation paid for. He decided that the award was nice, but the workshop was great experience. "It let me be with others who were involved with Shakespeare's work and I learned how to teach Shakespeare better," he said. Also this year was an unusual year. This was the last year one of the best English professors worked with this department. Dr. Knight retired after having taught for about forty years. She shaped many students. Fortunately, however, coming in to the English faculty will beone of Dr. Knight's own students. Robin Colby has been hired full time and will be teaching some of Dr. Knight's courses. There were many changes, some sad but others exciting, and next year proves to be just as memorable as this one.

Biology & Chemistry

Recently, the fiction bestseller lists included a book titled Jurassic Park, which was written by Michael Crichton. The central premise of the book was the successful cloning of ancient dinosaur DNA, the molecule which builds chromosomes and determines our genetic makeup. This DNA was found in the blood of insects which had been trapped and encased in amber, thus preserving them for future eons. It seems the insects had dined on Tyrannosaurus rex or Brontosaurus shortly before their untimely contact with the sticky, unrelenting amber, and therefore they contained traces of the DNA of their last host.

Although biologists are far from building amusement parks filled with extinct reptiles, cloning of genes from DNA had become an everyday activity in many laboratories across the globe. The purpose of isolating a gene, a stretch of DNA which contains the building instructions for a particular protein, are many. Last year, in a dramatic experiment at the National Institutes of Health, a gene for human adenosine deaminase (ADA) was isolated and replaced in a young child who was born without this protein. This protein is important in normal functions of the immune system; a deficiency of ADA keeps the immune system from fighting off the bacteria and viruses which constantly attack us all, a terminal situation for the child. At last report, the child was showing evidence of a functioning immune system. Other "cloned" proteins are in more common use today. For example, many diabetics use insulin prepared by "recombinant DNA" techniques, rather than insulin prepared from porcine sources.

Soon, Jurassic Park will be in movie theaters across the U.S., so you may watch in large-screen format the ethical and technical debated between the characters, the curiosity of the parkgoers, the ignorance of the promoters, and the inevitable chase scenes.

The Chemistry and Physical Science Department is one full of little "explosions." The department's focus was to prepare students for a variety of goals in life. With labs and lecture classes, the Chemistry and Physical Science Department can guarantee a little excitement. Dr. Hassett and Dr. Shifflett were two assets to the Chemistry and Physical Science Department. All this and the good professors added to the top notch education here at Meredith.

Math/Computer Science & Psychology

Do you know what came up in the Psychology department? The new Leadford Building is what came up and excited the Psychology professors and Psychology majors.The construction of the Leadford Building is to be an asset for the department. The lab that used to be on ground floor Poteat will now be coming back in the new building which is something the whole department is pleased with. Not only is the department looking forward to being in a new place, but also they feel that the academics of the department was improved this year. Now there is a Student Portfolio that helps outline the academic career of a Psychology Major. "Each student must successfully compile a portfolio to fulfill the requirements for the B.A. in Psychology," the document read. There are eight areas in which the student must strive to do her best. There is the knowledge base, communication skills, information gathering skills, ethics, interpersonal skills, practical application and resume or vita. Having these eight areas make those students better prepared. The Psychology department worked hard to create the best Psychology majors they could as well as making classes fun and useful for all other students.

The Math and Computer Science Department strived to give Meredith students an appreciation of the wide application of mathematics in the world, and that is truly what they did. With outstanding professors, the Math Department was top quality. In November, Jo Guglielmi, Edythe Stanislaw, Lal Shimpe, and Martha Bouknight all attended the Interdepartmental meeting for the faculties of Mathematics and Natural Science Departments of N.C. Baptist Colleges at Wingate College. Dr. Bouknight was invited for membership in the International Platform Association. Virginia Knight, while on leave of absence in Washington D.C., served as coodinater for a conference for National Science Foundation and principal investigators in the Informal Science Education Section. Dr. Knight also consulted for the Mathematical Association of America on their women's programs and organized a workshop for representatives of mathematics education and women-related professional societies on the participation of women in the mathematical sciences.

Religion, Philosophy, Sociology & Social Work

Do you know the saying sometimes you got it and sometimes you don't? Well, the Sociology and Social Work Department certainly had it this year. This department offered two majors, one in Socialogy, one in Social Work, and a concentration in Criminal Justice which is not offered every year. These students able to take it this year, took trips to local jails and correction centers. There were many other exciting events that happened to the Social Work department. They sponsored a conference in September and about forty people from off campus came for a full day. Then in March Ann Hartman, Dean of Smith College, School of Social Work, came for an all day workshop. A few weeks before, Pauline Bart was a guest speaker who informed students on Pornography and violence against women. There were some academic changes for this year. One was that evening classes were planned and started in the summer so that those who work during the day can complete the whole curriculum at night. Another major change was having Lori Brown on faculty. This was her first year and the department welcomed her and her expertise in Sociology of family, race relations, and aging studies. There are new classes being planned since she will be able to teach them. Other excitement in the Sociology and Social Work department is the fact that they were waiting for the new Leadford Building to be constructed so that they could move on to the third floor. The offices and Social Science research lab will be located there. It was a busy but exciting year.

The Religion and Philosophy Department was a unique and powerful department. As general requirements courses, Meredith students got a deeper understanding of biblical studies. The department also offers a major in religion and minors in religion and philosophy. In November, while attending the annual meeting of the Society of Biblical Literature (SBL) in San Francisco, Julia O'Brien chaired a session of the Israelite Prophetic Literature Section and was appointed co-chair of the section. She also served as chair of the Hebrew Bible/Old Testament Section of the southeast regional SBL after the spring meeting in Charleston, where she delivered a paper. All this helped as she and the other faculty prepared and taught their classes. That is what made this department special this year.

History/Politics & Home Economics

Wasn't there always something new popping up in the academic departments? The History and Politics department was no different. First there was the addition of Ms. Harper to the teaching staff. She has worked before with Meredith but she is coming back with us full time. The Politics classes had exciting classes which helped students to better understand the way the country works. Another change in the History department came from Dr. Novak. "We are undertaking the task to make Western 'Civ' even more exciting and interesting by finding a stimulating new textbook. So stay tuned!" This will effect the students who need His101. Dr. Novak was also busy with a paper to the Meeting of Social Science Faculty of North Carolina Baptist Colleges as one of his many activities during the year. Changes were always being made in all departments to better educate the students. This was just one of Meredith's assets which made this year special.

The Home Economics Department offered many areas of study including interior design, child development, foods and nutrition, and clothing and fashion merchandising. Ellen Goode and Martha Burpitt wrapped up Phase I and began work on Phase II of interior design work at Rex Hospital. This renovation included work of the main lobby, second floor west and administrative offices. In October, Lauree Holliday, Department Head, attended the 75th Annual Meeting of the American Dietetic Association in Washington, D.C. There she presented a session, "Perseverance Pays Off in Legislative Gains in North Carolina," and participated in a Round Table Session on "Strategies for Legislative Success in Federal and State Government." Ms. Holliday also was selected as the 1992 Member of the Year for the North Carolina Dietetics Association.

The Art Department was full of creativity. With a full faculty of wonderful professors, the art students at Meredith got a wide variety of studio experiences and will gain an understanding of the artistic productivity of human culture through the study of art history. In July 1992 Rebecca Bailey participated in service workshops on architecture for the N.C. Department of Cultural Resources for elementary and secondary teachers are the N.C. Museum of Art. In September, Ms. Bailey travelled to medieval sites in Normandy and Brittany and toured museums in Paris. Caroleigh Robinson has been invited to lecture about her art work to students of Peace College and to participated in the North American Artists Invitational Series at the Museum Without Walls in Bemus Point, New York. This and many other exciting events took place in the Art Department this year.

There were new and exciting activities in the P.E., Health, and Dance department. Besides the usual dance classes for dance majors, there were also many classes like Folk and Square Dancing which attracted Biology, Math, and English majors alike. "I had the most fun in that class and I recommend it to everyone no matter what major you intend to be," Misty McMillan a freshman exclaimed about her Folk and Square Dancing class. There were other courses such as golf I and II, plus tennis, badminton, swimming, first aid, and many others all which were there for the students to utilize as another way to learn and exercise. There was a new addition to the department. Ms. Melinda Campbell joined the staff to help with golf, folk and square dance, and many other courses. Such additions made Meredith P.E., Health, and Dance courses an asset to all students.

Music, Speech, & Theatre

What is it like to have a class far away from the other class buildings? Well, just ask any music, speech, or theater student who traveled away from the normal circle of buildings like Harris, Joyner, and Hunter to the distant Jones Class Building and the Wainwright Music Building. Walking through Hunter or Harris you may hear professors lecturing but once you get on the other side of Johnson Hall, you can usually hear the harmony and blend of either voices or instruments practicing. But not only did music and theater majors have classes in these buildings but also those who wanted to increase their public speaking skills through a speech class of some sort. Many who took Mr. Grant's Fundamentals of Speech commented that they felt what they learned could help them in any career they decide to go into. At Meredith many courses were used to increase a more well-rounded student. Even if students weren't music majors, they enjoyed performing in the Chorale, Chorus, and playing handbells.

Other departmental activities filled the year. The faculty members were busy presenting programs and signing contracts . Jim Clyburn, because of his trips to Poland and France gave a program for the Chapel Hill Piano Teachers Association and Raleigh Piano Teachers Association. He also showed slides, discussed, and performed for these groups. Terry Kauffman was the faculty member who signed a contract so that she could write a book. This book will be about Writing for Radio, Television, and Film. She has also composed six other songs for local musician to perform. Some of these songs were used in three television programs: "Women Today: Profiles in Leadership," " The Seasons of Change," and "Tone Portraits." Appearing as a soloist with the American Chamber Music Festival and the Concert Orchestra of N.C. State University was Leda Asher Yager. She was also a winner of the Birmingham Opera Theater Vocal Competition. All of these exciting events added to the development of the faculty who educate the music majors here at Meredith.

STEP BY STEP

Here we capture the non-traditional looks of Meredith students. Replacing the sweatpants, jeans and t-shirts that can be viewed on any given student, on any given day, students get out the dresses, slacks, or blouses in order to pose three seconds for a picture that will be in the history of Meredith College for later generations to see. Freshmen go through Orientation and nervously await the much talked about Cornhuskin'; sophomores are now like old-timers on our campus and participate in the traditional Father/Daughter Dinner Dance; juniors anxiously await the arrival of their class rings and the day the crook hunt begins; and, finally, seniors look forward to their last Cornhuskin' finale and the Mother's Day that they've been working toward for four years- Graduation. Even though each class has its own traditions, its own style, each is a true class act. Had it not been for the students that make up the campus, Meredith would not have the classes, organizations, sports, performances-- the personality that it is known for.

BOB & MIKE'S MORNING SHOW

Meredith College Class of 1996 came together on August 13, 1992 with fears, hopes, and dreams. Together they were united, all 408 of them, growing, sharing, and learning. Fortunately they had their Big Sisters to help them adjust to the rigors of college life. While their first year has been completed, three more exciting and adventurous years lye ahead of this special group of Meredith Angels. As time passes and things change, one thing will always remain the same: the Class of 1996 is a family of friends.

They experienced the excitement of Cornhuskin' and Stunt and the not-so-exciting week of excruciating exams. Through thick and thin, this Freshmen class made it a very special and memorable year.

THIS IS A GOOD SHOT

Carolyn Hill, Office of College Communications, sets up a photograph of Meredith students at Fall Fest. Hill also serves as advisor to the Oak Leaves. (Photo by: Amy Clark)

Closed classes, broken fixtures, student concerns, and campus issues; the Meredith College Administrative Offices have seen it all, and dealt with it all. From the Registrar's Office, who handle class schedules and drop/add slips to the Accounting Office who gives us our paychecks and scholarship checks to sign; from housekeeping who we ask to turn up or down the heat in the dorms (depending on which season it is) to the Dean of Student's Office that handles room assignments and awards days; the Administration covers a wide variety of positions on campus. Everyone in these offices helps to make Meredith the best that it can be for students, those coming as well as going. In the spring, "Experience Meredith" is held on a Saturday so that prospective freshmen can visit the campus, meet professors, and see what our school has to offer from the organizations and clubs. For seniors, Career Services holds many Job Fairs where they can make contact with area companies. And for everyone in between, the Administration handles issues ranging from the infamous male visitation to who gets what parking lot. All in all, this group of people helps students with classes, student life, and everything in between to help make Meredith the largest women's college in the Southeast.

Hard To Say Good-bye

How do I say good-bye to what we had
The good times that made us laugh outweighed the bad
I thought we'd get to see forever but forever is gone away.
It's so hard to say good-bye to yesterday.

I don's know where this road is going to lead
All I know is where we've been and what we've been through
If we get to see tomorrow I hope it's worth the wait
It's so hard to say good-bye to yesterday.

And I'll take with me the memories to be my sunshine after the rain.
It's so hard to say good-bye to yesterday.
And I'll take with me the memories to be my sunshine after the rain.
It's so hard to say good-bye to yesterday.
It's so hard to say good-bye to yesterday.

We miss you and we wish you were still here. Don't forget the good times we had together and keep us forever in your heart because you will forever be in ours.

We love you,
Kristen, Stephanie, and Dana

We love you, Kim!

Best wishes and thanks for everything!

Laura, Heather, and Rachelle

FOR HIRE

Mathematics major/ computer science minor seeks employment in exchange for room & board or $250,000/ year. Multi-talented and hard-working; works well with others; References available upon request.

1992-93 Senate

As part of the Student Government Association, Senate works with other branches to initiate and change any regulations and legislation for student organizations and for the entire student body. This year's Senate worked hard to open communication between itself and the student body and to motivate its constituencies toward active participation in student self governance. The Meredith community now has two new student organizations, Circle K and the Latter Day Saints Student Association. Also, Senate initiated a recommendation to have activities to promote student involvement on the campus during the weekends. Once a month in the Fall 1993 semester, there will be club sponsored activities and open house Sunday afternoons, hopefully enhancing the social atmosphere at Meredith.

The following students were Senators for the 1992-93 school year:

Morgan Dalrymple, Amy Johnson, Carmen Prevatte, Teresa Latham, Erin Riley, Joana Santamore, Kim Engel, Rebecca Faw, Bryce Stokes, April Dawkins, Hollis Hayworth, Sam Osborne, Tara Estes, Julie Shook, Darlene Schrufer, Stacy Young, Neasha Bryant, Dr. Jacques Comeaux, Cheryl Smith.
